

Lakeshore Media Group - Subscriber Master Agreement

This Subscriber Master Agreement ("Agreement") is between Lakeshore Media Group Inc. ("Lakeshore", "Provider") and the subscriber named in the Order Summary ("Subscriber", "you"). This is a synthetic document created for software testing purposes only. It is intentionally long.

2. Subscription Fee

The Subscriber agrees to pay a subscription fee of $18 per month, charged on the first day of each billing month to the payment method on file.

3. Minimum Term

The subscription has a minimum term of 24 months from the start date stated in the Order Summary.

4. Personal Data

Lakeshore may share the Subscriber's personal data with advertising partners and audience measurement providers.

Schedule 5 - Acceptable Use

5.1 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

5.2 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

5.3 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

5.4 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

5.5 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

5.6 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

5.7 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

5.8 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

5.9 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

5.10 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

5.11 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

5.12 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

5.13 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

5.14 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

5.15 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

Schedule 6 - Service Changes

6.1 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

6.2 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

6.3 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

6.4 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

6.5 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

6.6 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

6.7 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

6.8 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

6.9 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

6.10 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

6.11 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

6.12 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

6.13 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

6.14 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

6.15 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

Schedule 7 - Maintenance Windows

7.1 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

7.2 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

7.3 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

7.4 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

7.5 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

7.6 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

7.7 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

7.8 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

7.9 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

7.10 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

7.11 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

7.12 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

7.13 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

7.14 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

7.15 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

Schedule 8 - Accessibility

8.1 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

8.2 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

8.3 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

8.4 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

8.5 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

8.6 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

8.7 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

8.8 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

8.9 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

8.10 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

8.11 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

8.12 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

8.13 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

8.14 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

8.15 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

Schedule 9 - Third-Party Content

9.1 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

9.2 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

9.3 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

9.4 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

9.5 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

9.6 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

9.7 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

9.8 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

9.9 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

9.10 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

9.11 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

9.12 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

9.13 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

9.14 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

9.15 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

Schedule 10 - Warranties

10.1 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

10.2 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

10.3 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

10.4 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

10.5 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

10.6 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

10.7 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

10.8 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

10.9 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

10.10 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

10.11 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

10.12 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

10.13 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

10.14 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

10.15 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

Schedule 11 - Limitation of Liability

11.1 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

11.2 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

11.3 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

11.4 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

11.5 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

11.6 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

11.7 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

11.8 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

11.9 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

11.10 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

11.11 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

11.12 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

11.13 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

11.14 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

11.15 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

Schedule 12 - Force Majeure

12.1 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

12.2 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

12.3 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

12.4 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

12.5 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

12.6 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

12.7 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

12.8 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

12.9 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

12.10 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

12.11 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

12.12 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

12.13 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

12.14 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

12.15 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

Schedule 13 - Notices

13.1 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

13.2 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

13.3 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

13.4 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

13.5 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

13.6 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

13.7 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

13.8 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

13.9 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

13.10 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

13.11 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

13.12 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

13.13 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

13.14 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

13.15 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

Schedule 14 - Assignment

14.1 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

14.2 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

14.3 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

14.4 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

14.5 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

14.6 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

14.7 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

14.8 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

14.9 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

14.10 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

14.11 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

14.12 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

14.13 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

14.14 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

14.15 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

Schedule 15 - Governing Law

15.1 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

15.2 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

15.3 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

15.4 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

15.5 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

15.6 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

15.7 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

15.8 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

15.9 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

15.10 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

15.11 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

15.12 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

15.13 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

15.14 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

15.15 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

Schedule 16 - Service Levels

16.1 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

16.2 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

16.3 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

16.4 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

16.5 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

16.6 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

16.7 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

16.8 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

16.9 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

16.10 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

16.11 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

16.12 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

16.13 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

16.14 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

16.15 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

Schedule 17 - Content Availability

17.1 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

17.2 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

17.3 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

17.4 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

17.5 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

17.6 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

17.7 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

17.8 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

17.9 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

17.10 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

17.11 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

17.12 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

17.13 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

17.14 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

17.15 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

Schedule 18 - Supported Devices

18.1 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

18.2 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

18.3 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

18.4 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

18.5 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

18.6 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

18.7 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

18.8 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

18.9 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

18.10 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

18.11 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

18.12 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

18.13 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

18.14 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

18.15 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

Schedule 19 - Customer Support

19.1 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

19.2 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

19.3 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

19.4 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

19.5 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

19.6 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

19.7 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

19.8 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

19.9 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

19.10 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

19.11 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

19.12 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

19.13 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

19.14 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

19.15 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

Schedule 20 - Intellectual Property

20.1 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

20.2 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

20.3 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

20.4 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

20.5 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

20.6 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

20.7 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

20.8 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

20.9 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

20.10 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

20.11 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

20.12 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

20.13 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

20.14 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

20.15 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

Schedule 21 - Acceptable Use

21.1 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

21.2 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

21.3 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

21.4 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

21.5 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

21.6 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

21.7 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

21.8 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

21.9 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

21.10 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

21.11 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

21.12 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

21.13 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

21.14 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

21.15 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

Schedule 22 - Service Changes

22.1 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

22.2 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

22.3 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

22.4 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

22.5 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

22.6 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

22.7 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

22.8 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

22.9 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

22.10 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

22.11 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

22.12 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

22.13 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

22.14 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

22.15 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

Schedule 23 - Maintenance Windows

23.1 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

23.2 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

23.3 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

23.4 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

23.5 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

23.6 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

23.7 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

23.8 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

23.9 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

23.10 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

23.11 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

23.12 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

23.13 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

23.14 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

23.15 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

Schedule 24 - Accessibility

24.1 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

24.2 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

24.3 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

24.4 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

24.5 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

24.6 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

24.7 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

24.8 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

24.9 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

24.10 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

24.11 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

24.12 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

24.13 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

24.14 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

24.15 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

Schedule 25 - Third-Party Content

25.1 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

25.2 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

25.3 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

25.4 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

25.5 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

25.6 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

25.7 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

25.8 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

25.9 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

25.10 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

25.11 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

25.12 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

25.13 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

25.14 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

25.15 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

Schedule 26 - Warranties

26.1 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

26.2 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

26.3 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

26.4 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

26.5 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

26.6 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

26.7 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

26.8 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

26.9 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

26.10 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

26.11 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

26.12 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

26.13 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

26.14 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

26.15 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

Schedule 27 - Limitation of Liability

27.1 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

27.2 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

27.3 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

27.4 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

27.5 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

27.6 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

27.7 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

27.8 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

27.9 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

27.10 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

27.11 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

27.12 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

27.13 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

27.14 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

27.15 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

Schedule 28 - Force Majeure

28.1 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

28.2 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

28.3 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

28.4 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

28.5 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

28.6 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

28.7 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

28.8 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

28.9 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

28.10 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

28.11 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

28.12 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

28.13 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

28.14 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

28.15 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

Schedule 29 - Notices

29.1 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

29.2 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

29.3 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

29.4 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

29.5 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

29.6 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

29.7 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

29.8 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

29.9 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

29.10 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

29.11 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

29.12 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

29.13 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

29.14 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

29.15 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

Schedule 30 - Assignment

30.1 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

30.2 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

30.3 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

30.4 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

30.5 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

30.6 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

30.7 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

30.8 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

30.9 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

30.10 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

30.11 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

30.12 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

30.13 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

30.14 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

30.15 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

Schedule 31 - Governing Law

31.1 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

31.2 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

31.3 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

31.4 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

31.5 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

31.6 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

31.7 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

31.8 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

31.9 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

31.10 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

31.11 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

31.12 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

31.13 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

31.14 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

31.15 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

Schedule 32 - Service Levels

32.1 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

32.2 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

32.3 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

32.4 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

32.5 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

32.6 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

32.7 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

32.8 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

32.9 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

32.10 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

32.11 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

32.12 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

32.13 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

32.14 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

32.15 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

Schedule 33 - Content Availability

33.1 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

33.2 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

33.3 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

33.4 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

33.5 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

33.6 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

33.7 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

33.8 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

33.9 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

33.10 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

33.11 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

33.12 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

33.13 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

33.14 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

33.15 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

Schedule 34 - Supported Devices

34.1 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

34.2 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

34.3 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

34.4 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

34.5 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

34.6 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

34.7 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

34.8 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

34.9 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

34.10 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

34.11 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

34.12 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

34.13 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

34.14 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

34.15 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

Schedule 35 - Customer Support

35.1 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

35.2 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

35.3 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

35.4 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

35.5 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

35.6 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

35.7 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

35.8 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

35.9 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

35.10 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

35.11 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

35.12 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

35.13 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

35.14 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

35.15 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

Schedule 36 - Intellectual Property

36.1 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

36.2 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

36.3 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

36.4 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

36.5 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

36.6 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

36.7 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

36.8 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

36.9 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

36.10 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

36.11 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

36.12 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

36.13 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

36.14 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

36.15 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

Schedule 37 - Acceptable Use

37.1 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

37.2 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

37.3 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

37.4 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

37.5 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

37.6 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

37.7 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

37.8 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

37.9 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

37.10 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

37.11 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

37.12 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

37.13 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

37.14 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

37.15 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

Schedule 38 - Service Changes

38.1 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

38.2 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

38.3 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

38.4 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

38.5 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

38.6 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

38.7 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

38.8 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

38.9 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

38.10 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

38.11 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

38.12 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

38.13 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

38.14 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

38.15 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

Schedule 39 - Maintenance Windows

39.1 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

39.2 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

39.3 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

39.4 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

39.5 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

39.6 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

39.7 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

39.8 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

39.9 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

39.10 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

39.11 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

39.12 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

39.13 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

39.14 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

39.15 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

Schedule 40 - Accessibility

40.1 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

40.2 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

40.3 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

40.4 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

40.5 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

40.6 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

40.7 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

40.8 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

40.9 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

40.10 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

40.11 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

40.12 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

40.13 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

40.14 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

40.15 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

Schedule 41 - Third-Party Content

41.1 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

41.2 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

41.3 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

41.4 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

41.5 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

41.6 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

41.7 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

41.8 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

41.9 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

41.10 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

41.11 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

41.12 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

41.13 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

41.14 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

41.15 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

Schedule 42 - Warranties

42.1 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

42.2 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

42.3 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

42.4 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

42.5 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

42.6 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

42.7 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

42.8 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

42.9 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

42.10 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

42.11 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

42.12 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

42.13 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

42.14 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

42.15 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

Schedule 43 - Limitation of Liability

43.1 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

43.2 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

43.3 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

43.4 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

43.5 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

43.6 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

43.7 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

43.8 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

43.9 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

43.10 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

43.11 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

43.12 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

43.13 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

43.14 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

43.15 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

Schedule 44 - Force Majeure

44.1 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

44.2 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

44.3 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

44.4 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

44.5 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

44.6 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

44.7 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

44.8 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

44.9 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

44.10 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

44.11 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

44.12 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

44.13 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

44.14 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

44.15 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

Schedule 45 - Notices

45.1 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

45.2 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

45.3 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

45.4 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

45.5 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

45.6 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

45.7 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

45.8 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

45.9 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

45.10 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

45.11 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

45.12 The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder.

45.13 Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

45.14 Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect.

45.15 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

Schedule 46 - Assignment

46.1 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

46.2 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

46.3 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

46.4 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

46.5 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

46.6 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

46.7 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

46.8 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

46.9 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

46.10 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

46.11 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt.

46.12 The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider. If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement.

46.13 The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description.

46.14 Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth.

46.15 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

Schedule 47 - Governing Law

47.1 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

47.2 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

47.3 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

47.4 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

47.5 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

47.6 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

47.7 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

47.8 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

47.9 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

47.10 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

47.11 Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only. The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours.

47.12 Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders. The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days.

47.13 All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service. The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar.

47.14 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

47.15 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.

48. Cancellation

The Subscriber may cancel the subscription by giving at least 60 days written notice to cancellations@lakeshore.example, and a cancellation fee equal to two monthly fees applies before the end of the minimum term.

49. Automatic Renewal

After the minimum term this Agreement renews automatically for successive 12-month periods unless the Subscriber cancels as described in Section 48.

Annex 50 - Supported Devices

50.1 Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites. Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind.

50.2 Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities. Formal notices under this Agreement must be sent to the addresses stated in the Order Summary and are effective on receipt. The Subscriber may not transfer this Agreement to another person without the prior written consent of the Provider.

50.3 If any provision of this Agreement is held unenforceable, the remaining provisions continue in full force and effect. Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page.

Annex 51 - Customer Support

51.1 Headings are for convenience only and do not affect the interpretation of this Agreement. The Provider keeps records of service incidents and publishes a summary of material incidents on its status page. Content ratings and parental guidance labels are supplied by rights holders and are shown for information only.

51.2 The Provider will use commercially reasonable efforts to keep the Service available during the hours described in the applicable service description. Scheduled maintenance is announced on the status page at least two business days in advance and is normally performed outside peak viewing hours. Availability of individual titles, channels and features may vary by region because of licensing arrangements with rights holders.

51.3 The Subscriber is responsible for providing a compatible device, a supported browser and an internet connection with sufficient bandwidth. Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors.

Annex 52 - Intellectual Property

52.1 Support requests may be submitted through the help centre, and the Provider aims to respond to standard requests within two business days. All software, artwork, trademarks and editorial content made available through the Service remain the property of the Provider or its licensors. The Subscriber may not copy, redistribute, publicly perform or modify any content except as expressly permitted by the features of the Service.

52.2 The Provider may improve, update or reorganise features of the Service from time to time, provided that the core functionality remains materially similar. Accessibility features such as captions and audio descriptions are provided where they are made available by the relevant rights holder. Links to third-party websites are provided for convenience only, and the Provider is not responsible for the content or practices of those websites.

52.3 Except as expressly stated in this Agreement, the Service is provided on an as-available basis without further warranties of any kind. Neither party is liable for delays caused by events beyond its reasonable control, including natural disasters, network outages and acts of public authorities.